Local Jottings.

Wm. Murray of Wellsville was in town Tuesday.

Bishop Neilson of Hyrum was on the streets Tuesday.

D.R. Roberts made a flying visit to Salt Lake Sunday.

Alma Williams of Hyrum came up from Ogden Monday.

Alma Hillyard, the well-to-do farmer of Smithfield visited Logan Tuesday.

Judge Hart and Reporter Keeler have gone to Rich county to hold court.

The Archaeological Society will meet at the B. Y. College Wednesday evening.

If you don't think we mean business just come up to the U.O. and hear our motor sing.

If hard work will do it, John Nickelson will keep the ditches and crossings clean on Main street.

If John H. Bishop's numbers had held out he would have covered everything in the Tribune shop.

The old reliable Cache Valley Mer. Co. is in the swim for holiday trade. See their ad. in another column.

John Maughan, Ex-Postmaster of Wellsville, was in town on Tuesday. He says the roads are a "fright."

Our merchants are getting their Holiday display in shape and many of them are making very creditable exhibits.

C. G. Clark an old time Loganite was up from Benson Tuesday. He says the roads down that way are all right—for mud.

The Seventh ward Sunday school will give an entertainment in the Ward meeting house Wednesday evening the 17th.

Charlie Nibley Jr. is down from Star Valley, Charlie is running a cattle ranch up there, but has to come down once in a while. Just to see the folks.

Geo. Squires is learning to play a piano. All of the neighbors have their ears stuffed with cotton and claim the midnight out isn't a circumstance to it.

And now Samia is having a turn at the Volcano business. We will all be interested in the news from down there as several Cache Valley boys are doing missionary work on the Islands.

We congratulate Postmaster Murdoch on his success in the prize contest. We tried hard to make it $5000 but that youngster from Eureka was too much for us.

Sheriff Naylor of Salt Lake City, has now consummated the deal with Alma H. Pale for his excellent farm north of Smithfield. Consideration $5,000. Friend Ham, look out for the assessor.

If some man would invent a cheap pavement to replace the mud on our streets, our citizens would be willing to engrave his name on deathless marble and hang it up in the chief market place.

We understand that our friends, the Democrats are trying to raise the funds necessary to pay the expense of the contest cases against Larsen and Anderson. If this can be done suits will be fled within the next few days.

Sam Hall and H. E. Hatch have been appointed Jury Commissioners. Sam was in town Monday and when seen by our reporter was deep in the mysteries of a law book trying to find out what the duties of his new position are.

Hyrum Peterson was arrested Tuesday afternoon on two charges, one of assault and battery and a second of disturbing the peace. He was taken before Justice Peterson and placed under $50 bonds to appear at 4 p. m. Wednesday.

Dr. Croxall talked before Miss Moench's physical culture class at the A. C. last Thursday morning, in regard to structure of the lungs, and inspiration and expiration. His talk was very instructive and thoroughly appreciated by the class.

Logan needs an up town telegraph office and the Western Union stands in its own light when it does not give us better service. Then we are entitled to an up town express office also. If economy was to be considered the two could be combined as they were at Provo for some time.

It is amusing to observe the actions of people in our country stores. At one of them quite recently, a party was about to make a purchase when a second party steps up and remarks: "Don't buy that; its no good; why you can get that thing cheaper in Logan." These remarks were embarrassing to the dealer, who was evidently doing the best he could as to prices, etc., when the party finding fault was actually a debtor to the store. Considering all the circumstances, persons should remember such advice is hardly opportune.

The Minister of War reported in the French Senate the other day that the army of France has lost 90,000 men from disease since 1870, while the German army had lost from disease during the same time but 13,000 men.

New Business Concern.

There is a movement on foot to start a new knitting factory. Mr. Geo. Barber, H. E. Hatch, Dr. Budge and others are interested. The knitting business is flourishing and we hope the new enterprise will be as successful as those already in operation in our city.

We have since learned that Mr. H. C. Hansen and Elias Nielsen are interested in the new enterprise. The company will at once take steps to have shipped in and put in operation a well equipped plant for making all kinds of knitted goods. Only the most modern and best machinery will be used and no expense will be spared in making the factory strictly up to date. Mr. Nielsen, who has years of experience in the knitting business, will have charge of the manufacturing department.

The business will be carried on in the Goodwin building, First North street, which will be remodeled and made suitable for the purpose.

The name of the new firm is Union Knitting Mills Co.

O. N. STORE.

125 suits of men's boys and children's clothes to be sold positively at half price by January 1, 1903. We need the room for Dry Goods and Groceries which we shall sell exclusively hereafter.

Bob Murdoch's Prize.

The boys over at the postoffice enjoyed a good laugh at Bob's expense Sunday. The Tribune asked for a short sketch of his life Saturday and this in connection with the fact that he held a number pretty close up to the official figure in the prize contest. led Bob to think he had won the $5,000 prize. On Sunday when the mail came in the boys were scanning every letter for the one Bob expected from the Tribune with the $5,000 check enclosed. The Salt Lake package was the last one opened and down towards the bottom, there sure enough was Bob's letter with the red letters of the Tribune on the outside. They held it up to the light, the dark outlines of a strip of paper just the size of a check was plainly visible, Bob was called and the letter presented. As he held it to the light his face was a study for any artist. The boys asked him to open it but he declined preferring to be alone in the quiet of his own sanctum. The boys followed him in and refused to go away until the letter was opened. After a good deal of persuasion Bob pulled the letter carefully out of his pocket, eyed it critically, and with visible emotion and a trembling hand tore it open and pulled out the check slip and this is what he read:

"Your subscription expired on the 13th. Please renew."

Then there was a sound like falling water and the waves moaning along the shore.

The Sugar Factory.

So far the Sugar factory has had a very successful run. They commenced operation Sept. 16 and have been running continuously every since, in that time they have ground up about 36000 tons of beets and produced about 5,000,000 pounds of refined sugar. They have employed about 125 men and paid out $10,000 per month for wages and material. The beet crop is practically all in but it will take the factory until about Christmas to work them up, and clean up. It is estimated that the output for the season will reach about 6,000,000 pounds and the total outlay in the county will be about $225,000. Who says the factory is not a benefit to the county.

Wellsville Winks.

Our schools are in an excellent condition, nine in number being well graded. Their enrollment numbers 360. Bishop Evan Owens is principal.

John A. Leatham, postmaster, is obliging and accomodating in his office, being as popular as when marshal of Wellsville, where he proved an efficient officer.

The enterprising people of Wellsville are not to be out-done by way of a tabernacle for worship. They are constructing an edifice that will be second to none in the country. The approximate cost will be $20,000. All the excavating is done and a part of the massive foundation laid. Some three or four men may be put at work during the winter cutting stone for the building.

Question Department.

Sometime ago we mentioned that it was the custom of all up-to-date newspapers to have a question and answer department and if any of our subscribers lacked wisdom on any daily duty we would try and enlighten him.

Jerry Baker over at Mendon wrote us asking for the best method of treating lucerne bloat in cattle, we replied that a dose of 1 part concentrated lye and 2 parts castor oil administered inwardly, was most effective. A day or so later Baker called to say that he had tried the remedy and had come in to administer a dose he had prepared for us, and he proceeded to do so. When we came to, we found a hole in the ceiling, where our foot had gone through, the shafting was broken, the press disabled and as for ourselves we were "pied" up generally. Since then we have refrained from giving much information but as we understand Jerry is confined to his home by a lame back and we have got the splints off our leg and the poultice off our back, we take advantage of the opportunity offered to answer some of the questions that have accumulated on our desk during our visit to the hospital.

Is a coyote a wolf? Will you kindly answer to settle a bet? B. H. Providence Bench.

Webster says a wolf is a carnivorous animal. A coyote is a carnivorous animal and must be a wolf. There are some Wolves at Hyde Park that are not coyotes.

Does novel reading lead to insanity? P. T. Smithfield.

Authorities differ, Dr. Parkinson and J. Z. Stewart think it does. We think insanity leads to novel reading.

A Ministres Troubles.

Evangelist Martin is having a serious time of it in Salt Lake. The Methodist and Congregationalist Churches don't take kindly to him and have closed their Churches against him. The difficulty seems to grow out of some remarks he made against the effectiveness of the work of Christian ministers, generally. The following is an extract from one of his discourses on the subject.

"Just think of 3000 ministers preaching twice each Sunday for a year, or 312,000 sermons, supported by a large church membership, an army of Sunday-school workers and Christian Endeavor societies and all this so-called religious work, without a single accession or profession of faith. To come a little nearer home—the conference minutes of the California conference of the M. E. church for 1901 show that there were 229 effective ministers, supported by a regiment of Sunday-school workers, Epworth leaguers and 19,696 church members, paying out for ministerial support $150,000 and at the close of the year figured up a loss of 107 in membership. No wonder they do not want me to say anything about the churches or the preachers.

"From the foregoing facts it is evident the church needs something.

Now just what that something is, is the question that is puzzling the churches throughout the land today.

One thing is evident, it is not a better educated ministry.

Theological schools and universities are getting to be as thick as the peaks of the mountains, and nearly every church has a D. D. or Ph. D., and as some one has said, you might justly add an 'N. G.' for a pastor.

"Again, it is not the power of money that is needed. In many instances it has been entering to the rich, that has robbed the church of its power.

As a rule the higher the church steeple goes the lower the spirituality goes. The church is not in need of the power of members. The fact is the church is not in need of more church members, but a better grade of what she has. As Joseph Cook says: "The great need of the world is the Christianizing of Christianity."

A student signing himself J. F. R., down at the B. Y. College, sends us the following verse and asks us if we will pay him fifteen cents for the rest of the poem. Yes, John, send it along and we will give you a quarter.

I've tasted all the beverages,
Almost, now made for man,
The product of all countries
From Egypt to Japan;
I've supped the choice Mocha
And drank the Java rare,
And wines from far Maderia
And teas from everywhere.
But of all the drinks and beverages
That my pleasing fancies wake,
Give me the barley coffee
My mother used to make.
